

EAGLE-EYE VIEW

A Boeing F-15E Strike Eagle patrols the airspace near Kennedy Space Center, Fla., shortly after launch of the Space Shuttle Atlantis on May 14 on a mission to the International Space Station. The space shuttles are being retired, and the STS-132 mission was the final scheduled flight of Atlantis and the 34th shuttle flight dedicated to station assembly and maintenance. Boeing is a major subcontractor to United Space Alliance, the shuttle's operations contractor.

PHOTO: U.S. AIR FORCE

